

Preparing to Interview for an Academic Position

This past fall, the Viterbi School of Engineering hosted a mentoring panel to encourage Ph.D. students and postdocs to pursue a rewarding career in academia and research. In continuation of this successful panel series, the Spring 2010 academic mentoring panel will focus on the topic, "Preparing to Interview for an Academic Position."

Engineering Ph.D. students and Post Docs from all areas and departments are strongly encouraged to attend. Lunch will be served.

Four distinguished faculty will discuss their academic paths and those of their PhD students successfully placed in university positions in the US and abroad, offer strategic advice, and answer your questions.
